Sat. May 16, 2009 10:0-5:30pm $135 6.5 CE hrs Registration deadline: May 12, 2009

Character and emotion are a much discussed topic in Chinese medicine and Cindy Banker's explanation of the "ce-40 character profile" provides one of the most sophisticated approaches to the subject. In this seminar Cindy will explain how Chinese Medical principles evolved from political strategy and Taoist practices into the sophisticated view finally encompassed by Chinese medicine's eight principle paradigm. Learn how to use the ce-40 character profile as an easy assessment tool, both for their clients and for themselves. Understand the eight categories described in the ce40 test and how they represent meridians.

Students in the field of Chinese Medicine will be able to easily apply what they have learned for either acupuncture or ABT treatment strategies, for both physical and psychological applications as revealed by the ce40 test. Advanced practitioners will appreciate the detailed and complete descriptions of how the five phases; six divisions and eight principles are all fully addressed. Everyone will have a lot of fun during the seminar as they learn how to unleash the full potential of their own creative process!
